

DO NOW...

THINK about these questions...

- When did you first fail and what happened? What did you do?
- How many times did it take for you to obtain your Driver's License?
- How many times did you take the SATs? Did you report your first score?
- If you played a sport, did you always win?

We will discuss this later.

Essential Questions

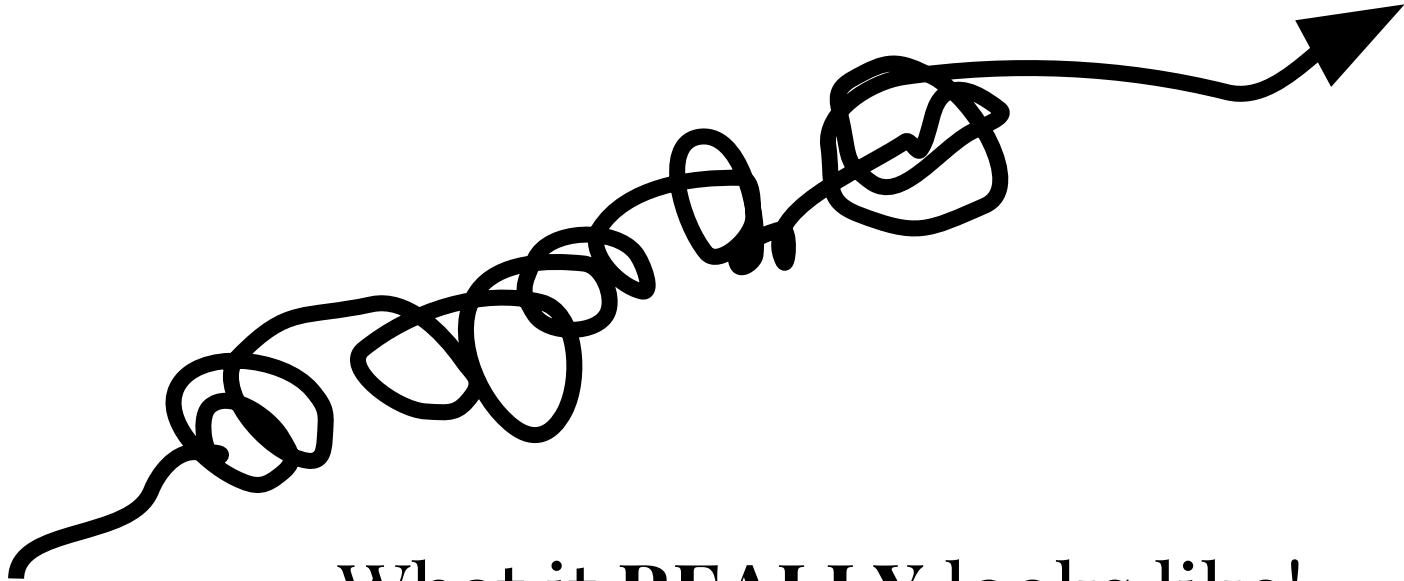

- How can we create a community of innovators and risk-takers who embrace failure?
- How can you create a fail-friendly home?

Success

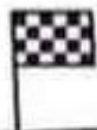

What people think it looks like!

Success

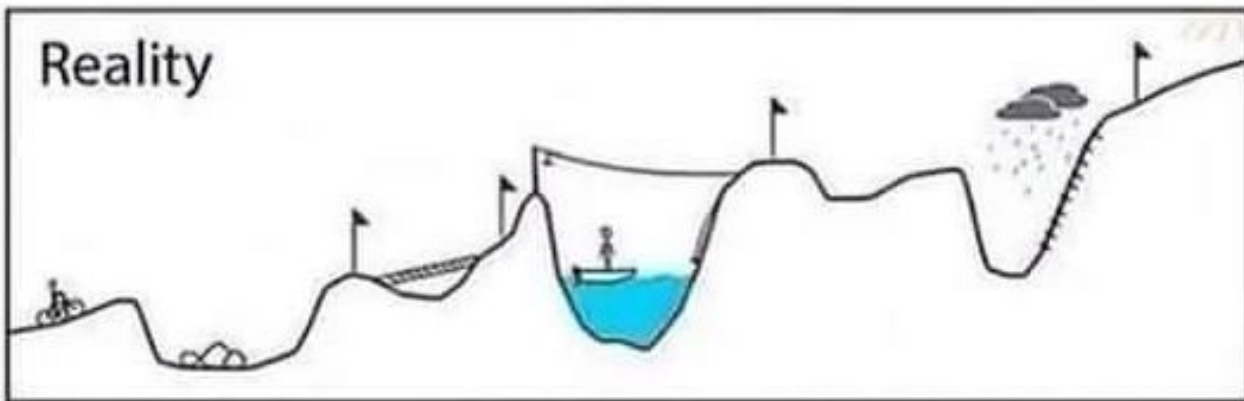

What it REALLY looks like!

Your plan

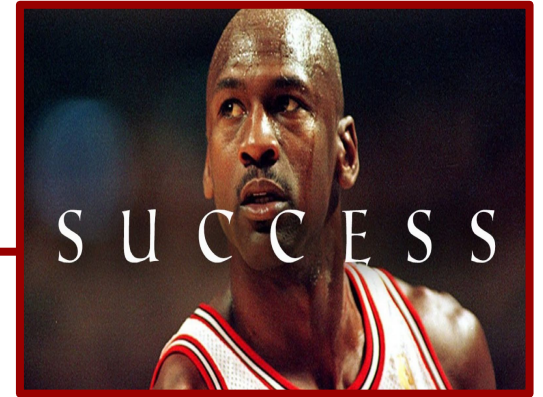

Reality

Michael Jordan

“I’ve missed more than 9,000 shots in my career, I’ve lost almost 300 games, 26 times I’ve been trusted to take the game winning shot and missed. I’ve failed over and over again and that is WHY I succeeded”

Failure In Real Life

Famous Failures

“If you have never failed, you have never lived.”

WE LEARN FROM FAILURE
NOT FROM SUCCESS

HOW DO WE CREATE A FAIL-FRIENDLY HOME?

- Do NOT rescue them!
- Small Intentional Failures
- Makerspace/“Sandbox”
- Questioning Strategies
- Model Risk-Taking
- Celebrate Mistakes/Success

Let's Talk

1. Use goals instead of rewards. (Bonnie - orange)
2. Realize that every rescue or intervention is a lesson lost. (Kim - red)
3. Encourage household duties as the best way for kids to practice competence and contribute. (Neel - purple)

How do I make this happen at home?

PERMISSION TO MAKE MISTAKES

I, _____ (THE ARTIST), HERBY ACKNOWLEDGE
THAT ON OCCASSION IT IS COMPLETELY NORMAL/HUMAN/EXPECTED
THAT MISTAKES OCCUR, AND THAT WHEN THEY HAPPEN I WILL NOT SPEND AN EXORBANANT AMOUNT OF TIME BEATING MYSELF UP.OVER
IT. I UNDERSTAND THAT I HAVE FULL PERMISSION AND AM EXPECTED TO MAKE MISTAKES ON A REGULAR BASIS.
